FULL WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

The Things Specifically Named in the New Law; All Other Commodities Must Be Handled on the Square

Now that the new weights and measures law is in legal force and effect and has not yet been published there is a great deal of curiosity, even anxiety in some quarters, concerning its provisions, for it affects so many lines of business that a great many people may be unintentionally violating its provisions. The Republican produces herewith a list of the requirements in respect of handling commodities, robbed of legal verbiage and boiled down to a statement of the things necessary to be done by traders.

How they shall be done he can find out if interested, by applying to O. N. Creswell state scaler of weights and measures.

Mr. Creswell said yesterday that while he proposes to carry out the full intent of the law, it will be impossible at this time to put every provision into practice and common justice demands that leniency be given in particular cases. For instance dairymen are required to use bottles with certain information "blown in the bottles." Some dairymen stocked up with hundreds, perhaps thousands of dollars worth of bottles just before the law was passed. If they are trying to abide by the purposes of the law it would be a hardship to force them to cast aside all these bottles. Again the law is to some extent impracticable for the time being, or unfortunately worded. Retail meat dealers are directed to give a delivery ticket with each sale which can be easily done, but retail grocers are required to "stamp or print" the weight on each parcel or container, a most embarrassing thing, while they might easily make out a delivery ticket or write the weight on the parcel with a pencil. If a man bought 87 cents worth of sugar it would hardly be feasible to have handy of pounds in that package. Even a rubber stamp outfit would be as big as a printing office.

The matter of scales, containers, measurements and other standards, will be looked after by the state's inspectors but here are the things the manufacturer or seller must do:

Bread—write, stamp or print on each loaf or the label, with indelible letters, or figures the name of manufacturer, date of making and net weight. Five per cent is allowed for shrinkage on loaves one day old, ten per cent on bread two or more days old. After three days it shall be sold as stale bread.

Coal—It must be sold by weight, except when there is an agreement between buyer and seller. Each delivery shall be accompanied by a ticket made in duplicate, showing gross weight, tare of vehicle and quantity delivered, with names of seller and buyer, one of the tickets for the inspector on his demand and a ticket showing net weight or quantity shall be given purchaser.

Milk, cream, distilled water—Bottles of whatever size must have blown or permanently marked in them, the capacity and name or trademark of dealer.

Wood—Same provision as coal in respect of markings as to quantity and tickets delivered to purchaser and inspector when demanded, showing amount of wood sold. A cord must be a cord.

Ice—Must be sold by weight.

Hay—Same provisions as wood and coal in respect of tickets and weights. Sales may be made by other than actual weighing when by buyer and seller have such an agreement and where deliveries are made in wagon or ton lots.

A single ticket may serve for the entire load, showing gross, tare and net weight. Where hay is sold by the bale its correct weight must be marked on each bale, except that three per cent shrinkage is allowed on a bale less than six months old and five per cent if over six months old where the age is stamped on the bale.

Meats—Every sale of fresh meats and fish and similar market goods must be accompanied by a delivery ticket showing the exact weight in pounds and fractions, and names of seller and buyer.

Butter—Where butter is sold in package or carton each shall have stamped upon it the correct weight in pounds and ounces, providing that an allowance of 2 1/2 per cent shall be made for each package or carton.

Tea and Coffee—Where sold in packages or containers each shall have the correct weight stamped or printed thereon.

General provisions—Where wheat flour, buckwheat flour, corn meal, rice, beans, sugar, barley, bran, wheat, corn, potatoes, onions, seed, ham, or bacon are sold in bags, sacks or other containers the correct weight of the containers shall be stamped or printed thereon.

An allowance for shrinkage is allowed, not exceeding 2 1/2 per cent.

Lard—All containers must carry correct weights. No allowance for shrinkage.

Vinegar, Sweet Oil—Where vinegar or sweet oil is sold in bottles or cans each bottle or can shall carry labels or wrappers bearing the correct quantity within the container.

Soda crackers, dried fruits—All containers shall show correct quantities in pounds and fractions, stamped or printed thereon. Fines for violation run from $5 to $250.

COMBINATION IS LAID BARE

An Intimation That There Is Money in the Scavenger and Window Cleaning Business When Systematically Conducted

A suit filed in superior court yesterday may result in the throwing of some light on the window cleaning and scavenger business. It may show that a monopoly in those two apparently widely separated industries exists in Phoenix and that this monopoly is contributory to the local high cost of living.

The plaintiff in this action is Baci Casassi, and the defendant Bernardo Pasqualetti. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant contracted to sell him a one-sixth interest in a window cleaning and scavenger business which the defendant represented to him that he controlled. The consideration was to be $500. It was further agreed that the plaintiff should have employment and that his share in the industry was to be paid for by this employment but that he should be allowed $40 a month out of his share of the profits, the balance to go toward the payment of his one-sixth interest. How much more than $40 a month Casassi's share of the profits were to be is not stated for no fixed installment was mentioned in the contract and no time was fixed when the last installment should be paid. In the absence of these little details the contract reminds one of the paucity of the terms of the problem, "How old is Aunt?"

But, judging from the complaint, it is perhaps well that there were no more conditions of the contract for there would have been just that many more for Pasqualetti to violate. It is alleged that what there was of the contract was violated.

The plaintiff believes and "therefore alleges to be a fact that the defendant is guilty of a breach in limine," in that he had no power in the beginning to contract away one-sixth of the window cleaning and scavenger business for it appears that there were other partners who had not been consulted and who had not therefore authorized Pasqualetti to enter the syndicate by the admission of Casassi.

The plaintiff further charges that Pasqualetti broke the contract by swearing at the plaintiff, striking him with his fist and threatening to kill him, thus inducing him to leave the window cleaning and scavenger business.

Under the contract Casassi went to work in May, 1911, and continued until August 5 of this year when things got too warm for him. He claims that there was due him as the owner of one-sixth of the business, $1350 but that he received only $40 a month as a mere employee for fourteen months, $560, so that there is yet due him from the syndicate, $790.

From this it is learned that his total profits were, or he thinks, they ought to have been, $95 a month, which is not bad for a one-sixth interest.

AMUSEMENTS

THE EMPRESS.

"Cherry Blossoms," a tale of fondness and fun at a seaside resort, will be the offering of the Empress Belleville Musical comedy company, at the Empress tonight. Prominent parts will be fulfilled by Belleville, Kelley, Baker, Barron and Forbes who promise the public an evening of amusement. A number of popular songs will be interpolated throughout the play and any one here who has not seen Kelley, or heard Miss Baker sing, would do well to attend as this is the last week of the company's engagement. The pictures of the Johnson-Flynn fight will be shown Friday and Saturday of next week and on September first. A high class dramatic company will open the autumn season on the second of next month.

THE COLISEUM.

The Coliseum has an excellent program this week and is offering its patrons several additional photo plays and two of the cleanest, cleverest vaudeville numbers ever seen on its boards. Miss Beulah Maple has a beautiful voice, which she uses to enrich songs of beautiful sentiment. Her work is entirely different from the usual rag time, neither is it the classical music of grand opera but is composed of the sweet, homely tunes that we all love and appreciate.

The German comedians indulge in dialogue sparkling with clever repartee, and are not running so rapidly after their pay checks that it is impossible for the auditors to understand what they say. Their enunciation is distinct, their voices clear and one enjoys their act from start to finish.

THE WIGWAM.

"According to Law" a Selig human interest drama of the Ghetto, "The Convict's Parole" an Edison drama by Melvin G. Winstock, "Darby and Joan" a Lubin and "Henry The Fourth and The Woodchopper" compose the new bill opening at the Wigwam tonight for a two nights run.

"Henry The Fourth and The Woodchopper" is a story of La Fontaine's, of a king who becoming lost in the woods accepts the hospitality of the wood-chopper, who in return asks to be shown the king at the coming country fair, not knowing that his guest is Henry The Fourth himself. To tell the balance of the story would be to spoil the effect of the film; let it suffice that the whole is exceedingly interesting and the ending a surprise.

The above will be given for the first time tonight. It is another one of those excellent bills for which the Wigwam is noted.

You'll Do Better at Goldbergs

FIRST BASEMAN GANDIL'S WORK HAS HELPED TO KEEP WASHINGTON IN PENNANT HUNT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—"Chick" Gandil, the Senators' first sacker, seems truly a discovery. The price tags on his uniform are blurred. Some say that he cost Griffith the three players sent to Montreal and a bonus of $9,000, and others aver that "Chick" was marked down to $15,000. Also the Washingtonians say that the Cubs offered $15,000 and no players and the Boston Red Sox $8,000 and two players. The Montreal manager said that any one of these offers would be acceptable and gave Gandil his choice. Joe Yeager, the Montreal third baseman, advised him to go to Griffith, and so he did. Gandil is fast and plays almost as deep a field as McInnis or Chase. Gandil has been achieving wonders with the bat as well. Manager Griffith says that he has strengthened the Senators' infield by 40 per cent. The success of the Washington team dates back almost from the time that Gandil joined the club.

CREIGHTON

CREIGHTON DISTRICT, Aug. 21.—The bonds issued for the building of a new school building and improving the old one have been sold to the Valley Bank of Phoenix. The board of trustees have decided to start work at once. They will hold a meeting on the twenty-third and the bids they have received will be considered. No definite steps will be taken till then. It is hoped that the new building will be ready for use on or about the first of the coming year. The board has employed William Hirshey as principal and Miss Hazel Clerick as teacher of the primary grades. Both have been with the school four terms and the board thinks they are the best that can be employed. No definite date has been set for the opening of the coming term but it is expected to start on the 16th of September.

Lieut. La Tourette of the A. N. G. returned from Fort Huachuca last Wednesday and says the encampment was the most instructive in recent years. The boys seemed to take more interest this year than in former years. The new military code is easier to see into than the old one. This is what La Tourette thinks is the cause of the unusual interest taken in the work.

Henry Harvey is making preparations to leave for Los Angeles where he will stay till the fall and winter term of the Leland Stanford University opens. Henry will take a course of civil engineering at that institution.

J. H. Ragerre, a recent arrival from Oklahoma, has leased the L. Shawyer ranch for a term of years and will move on it as soon as he can make arrangements to have his family brought here. Mr. Ragerre has had much experience with farming and has tried many places in the United States but to him the Salt River Valley seems to be the best place on earth to farm.

Francis Winter has left for eastern points on business for the White Line company, of which he is vice-president. He will be gone about a month. He says the railroad is not a fizzle as many persons think, but a real business enterprise. Over $2,000,000 will be spent in this valley by the firm that has taken charge of the old

Work on the new administration building at the insane asylum is progressing rapidly; the roof has been laid and the partition work is all finished. Plastering will begin in a few days. Contractor Gallagher says he will have the building ready for the opening scheduled for the first of October.

J. M. Schwartz has moved into his new bungalow on the park road. This is one of the best and most costly furnished houses in the valley. The special feature of this cottage is the ventilation. The air of each room can be changed every ten minutes. A landscape gardener will be employed to make plans for the lawns and the shrubbery. Mr. Schwartz will spare no money on making this the most attractive place in the valley. This home is a great boost for Creighton district and the entire valley.

Jacob Kleck has purchased a house in the Germania tract and will move into it as soon as the present deal involving his forty-acre ranch is closed.

Julian and Firth Powers are now in Los Angeles with their grandmother, Mrs. Woodbridge.

Chas. Murrie, a well known Scotch baritone, has purchased the beautiful five acre tract from Ira Rupp and will build a winter home on it. The tract is located on the McDowell road with a south frontage.

Dr. Clark has bought three lots close to the fair grounds and will build a house on them as soon as possible. Dr. Clark has a fine string of fast horses at the fair grounds and expects to devote his entire time to his Blue Grass trotters.

THEIR ROMANCE

"He loves me, he loves me not," said Maud Muller, as she went through the garden picking potato bugs off the potato plants.

"He loves me,"

She picked a potato bug.

"He loves me not,"

She picked another potato bug.

"A thrifty girl, forsooth," declared the judge. "Instead of playing that game with daisy petals, she plays it with potato bugs."

He proposed, they were married, and if the recall of judges does not go into effect they will doubtless live happily.
